been inspected by T. H. Mackenzie of the state board of civil engineers, and found to be all right. He declares it is built strong enough so that several feet can be added to the top of the present dam if desired.

Inspector MacKenzie in his statement to the local board of water commissioners said: "In capacity of a member of the state board of civil engineers, I have examined the plans and specifications dated March, 1969, prepared by Chandler & Palmer, for a dam built by the city of Norwich during the year 1968 at the outlet of Meadow brook. I have also at several dates during the year inspected the foundations and workmanship of said dam and I hereby approve the same, belleving that the said dam is now finished, the woodwork having been completed, and all is in readiness for the water. All that is received there now goes into Falrylew, but it is not a large amount.

The water department is now engaged in excavating in West Main street from Pierson's barn for the replacing of the six-inch with a twelve-inch main for a distance of 700 feet. As the street at that point has been filled in a number of times it is necessary to dig deeper than usual, the pipe being from six to seven feet deep. About one-half of the excavating has been completed. The pipe has arrived and will be laid as soon as the full ditch is dug. It will be necessary to lay the new pipe before disturbing the old.

The Mother Goose idea was cleverly carried out and made a pretty effect in tables and costumes. The beautiful flower table in the center, filled with choice flowers from the greenhouses of Messrs. F. Turner, Mrs. Harry L. Wadsworth, Mrs. W. Tyler Olcott, Mrs. Gurdon L. Bidwell, Mrs. Henry F. Ulmer and Miss Martha L. Osgood. Each table represented a different Mother Goose character.

At Bo Peep's table Kittle Holmes and Jennie Hitchen were in charge of the calendars, sheep and playthings. Two long tables of fancy work were one the fairies' table and the other the little Maids in the Garden Hanging Out the Clothes. The fairy table was presided over by Miss Helen Robinson, assisted by Florence Smith, Amy Treadway, Jessie Hitchen, Jennie Corcoran, Grace Bush, Dorothy Louden, Elizabeth Ellis in their pretty fairy costumes.
